"Thank God for the skills and bravery for those on the front line of our defences as Coronavirus continues to cause havoc in our communities. God help us all. Our prayers are needed more than ever – for them and for ourselves as well as those who have no-one to care for them personally. We need to act with discipline, kindness, and the hope of the Gospel – in the spirit of Mother Julian of Norwich. She knew about the plague and pestilence in her own experience of it in her day in the 14th century. Her advice was that, in the end, 'All shall be well. All shall be well. All manner of things shall be well'. This is our ultimate expression of Faith, Hope, and Love" - penned by a clergy colleague. With my continued thoughts and prayers for you all.
Kind regards, Michael Burns. Vicar Passion Sunday, 29 March 2020
